Contributors to This Issue

Shalom Rosenfeld: head of Journalism Studies Program and the Institute for Research of the Jewish Press, Tel Aviv University, a founder of Maariv and its editor-in-chief, 1974-90.

Professor Aharon Barak: Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of Israel.

Menachem Michael: journalist; member of Yedioi Aharoni staff.

Talit Tadmor-Shimon: research student at the Institute for Contemporary Judaism, Hebrew University of Jerusalem, specializing in the question of national identity in American Jewish socialism.

Dr. Arno Herzberg: journalist who worked in Germany during the 1920s and 1930s; formerly a director of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency in Berlin; lives in the US, where he has published memoirs of his work as a journalist and editor in Germany.

Dr. Aryeh Ben Yosef: historian and bibliographer, Bar-Ilan University Library.

Moshe Or: editor and translator; former member of Bamahaneh staff, great-grandson of Joel Moses Solomon, a pioneer editor in Erets Israel.

Shoshana Shiffrin: research student in Jewish History Department, Tel Aviv University, specializing in Nahum Sokolow's role in the Zionist movement.

Dr. Alina Calt: Polish historian who for the past number of years has been researching the Jewish press in Poland; participated in several conferences at the Center for Research of Polish Jewry and its Culture, Hebrew University of Jerusalem.

Mussia Lipman: member of the Javanon Institute, Tel Aviv.

Shlomo Shva: author and journalist specializing in Erets Israel topics.

Dov Genewski: journalist and economics writer with Yedioi Aharoni; specializes in research on Jerusalem.

Professor Nuzit Govrin: teaches Hebrew literature at Tel Aviv University.

Dr. Yehuda Eliot: teaches at Levinsky Teachers College; researcher at the Institute for the Research of Zionism, Tel Aviv University.