CONTRIBUTORS TO THIS ISSUE

Shalom Rosenfeld: head of Journalism Studies Program and the Institute for Research of the Jewish Press, Tel Aviv University; a founder of Ma'ariv and its editor-in-chief, 1974-80.

Amos Regev: news desk editor, Yedioth Aharonot.

Raphael Mann: news desk editor, Ma'ariv.

Avi Weinberg: news desk editor, Hadashot.

Dr. Joseph Kermish: researcher and historian; published books about the Holocaust of Polish Jews; expert on the Ringelblum archive; a founder of the Yad Vashem archive in Jerusalem.

Dr. Shlomo Shafir: editor of the magazine Gesher, published by the World Jewish Congress; member of the editorial staff of Davar for 35 years; engaged in research of the pre-and post-Holocaust period.

Dr. Avraham Greenbaum: senior lecturer, Department of Jewish History, University of Haifa; researcher at the Dinur Center, Hebrew University of Jerusalem.

Dr. Mordecai Naor: lecturer in journalism, Tel Aviv University; author and editor of books on the history of Eretz Israel; editor of Qeshet.

Yigal Binyamin: research student, Department of History of Israel, Bar-Ilan University, studying the history of the pioneering Zionist movement in Holland; former member of the Jewish underground in Holland during World War II.

Joseph Almog: a leader of Mapai; former member of Knesset and cabinet minister; head of the Eretz Israel prisoners of war in Nazi captivity during World War II.

Dan Re'ım: journalist.

David Melamed: writer specializing in research of the history of Israel and the Hebrew press; published many articles on these subjects.

Dr. Joseph Fund: wrote Ph.D. dissertation at Bar-Ilan University on Agudat Yisrael, Zionism and the State of Israel.

Amir Horkin: M.A. student in political science and business administration, Tel Aviv University.

Nili Kopilowicz: M.A., Jewish history, Hebrew University of Jerusalem; graduate of the Journalism Studies Program, Tel Aviv University.